BMA South East are hosting this one-off workshop and Assembly meeting. Please join us. All welcome!

With the NHS in a perilous state there has never been a more important time for doctors across the profession to come together to develop a positive vision for what a caring, supportive and collaborative health and care system should look like. The challenge is how we find the solutions to the problems facing the NHS.

As the only organisation to represent all doctors working across all sectors of the UK the BMA is uniquely placed to help meet this challenge. That is why we have launched 'Caring, supportive, collaborative: a future vision for the NHS'. This project aims to be an honest conversation with our profession about the sort of NHS doctors want to work in. Help us to consider solutions and develop our vision at this workshop for Doctors and Medical Students in the South East.
